

Being a visual artist based in San Antonio Texas, my passion lies in color based on the world and people around me. I enjoy creating vibrant and expressive works of art that explore themes of culture, and nature.

I fortunately was gifted the talent of painting discovered at a very young age which led me to taking advanced painting classes from elementary to middle school. Thereafter I applied and was accepted to Northeast School of the Arts as a visual artist. During my time at N.E.S.A I worked on several sets and costumes for musicals. I expanded my knowledge for art, and I was able to work on projects daily. I received many honors and awards during my time attending the magnet program.

After high school I focused my time as a retail manger. Most of my time in retail I worked on floor displays and merchandising. I still painted from time to time but began experimenting with photography. I really enjoy taking photos of all environments, especially the outdoors and nature.

I have been transitioning in recent years where my focus has been painting and photography in state and national parks. My basis of subjects varied from stars of the mid-century era to recognizable or mainstream imagery. Currently I am centering my focus on color placement and shapes. Painting as if I am breaking tiles and placing in into mosaic shapes of the setting I captured.

The project will be capturing nature's beauty within the greater San Antonio area such as, the Japanese Tea Garden, Botanical Gardens, San Pedro Creek Culture Park, and many more. I will capture still digital photos that will be paired with my paintings. The images captured will be displayed next to the painting it portrays.
