

I taught Ceramic Sculpture at Northwest Vista College to Gaming students.

One of the objectives was to study anatomy. One of the projects the students did was to build a realistic human head from the bones to the muscle layers to the skin and then finish them into an assemblage figure. The students did an amazing job! A few of examples follow:

