WORK EXPERIENCE

Owner/Photographer

Hey Miss Mae. (2010 - Present)

As a young, stay at home mom I taught myself photography as a life-giving creative outlet. Processing my own motherhood journey, refined my voice as an artist.

I quickly gained notoriety as a vulnerable, emotive storyteller, with my images of motherhood receiving recognition from publications like Daily Mail (2013), Today (2014), and National Geographic (2018, 2019). I currently photograph maternity, birth, families, and weddings with an artistic documentarian eye.

Communications Coordinator

Sunset Ridge Collective (2023-present)

In our community, the word collective means a group of people working together—all using our unique gifts for the flourishing of one another and our neighborhood. My current position entails documenting the process of renovating a large church and creating content that promotes the mission of the newly formed community park, coffee truck, preschool, and coworking space within it's beautiful campus.

Course Instructor

Click & Co. (2014-2018)
Unravalled Academy (2016-2019)

The education I received through online forum and school, Click & Co. (formerly Clickin' Moms) provided me the opportunity to learn skills and industry best practices, as well as a community to pour back into as an instructor in time. Creating and teaching several online courses, as well as being a presenter and during the world's largest photography retreat for female photographers for several years, formed the confident artist I am today.
