

Proud of Me

(An Inner dialogue)

Written by: Camilyah Buxton, Ed.S.

Table of Contents

What does Dad Think? by Camilyah Buxton

I Have Something to Say Camilyah Buxton

.....

.....

.....

I HAVE SOMETHING TO SAY: In Honor of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. WRITTEN
BY: Camilyah Buxton, Ed.S
1/23/2024 Dr. King's Life and Legacy mean something to me, to our school, to the communities in which we reside to the world in which we live. I am a product of his efforts of change and tranquility. It is extremely important to remember the why of what he gave his life for. Why did he make an effort for peace for all? Why did he march? Why did he write and copyright his intellectual property?

Why did he believe in non-violence?
So on this day, we all stand on a platform of legacy that allows us to see how it is to dwell and work in unity. Today is the day that he talked about, and prophesied about a future where we can join in hand in hand. As we reflect on his life, and the life and his family, and in the passing of his most recent family member his son, Dexter King, let us shine on as beacons of light and hope for a world that resonates with love, hope, and tranquility.

poetry

by Camilyah Buxton

What does Dad Think?

by Camilyah Buxton

I am so proud of my kids,
They are smart, blessed and beautiful.

I look at my oldest Camilyah and I see a brave heart and a strong leader.

I look at my second born, my name sake George a see a quiet thunder of intelligence.

I look at my third born Jason and see brilliance elude from moment to moment.

I look into the eyes of my youngest born Jocelyn and see love, compassion and care.

They are all so distinct and the make me Proud!!

Love Dad -

In the thoughts and mindset of my Dad Rev. George E. Johnson, Sr.

Author

Camilyah
Buxton,
Ed.S

Camilyah is a native of Inkster, MI a small hometown living city. She is happily married and Thomas and resides the beautiful city of San Antonio. She is the oldest daughter, and grand daughter on both sides. She has been a leader with public speaking opportunities as a youth. Little, but little she has continued to encourage those around her. She is extremely focused on motivating herself and others. Her goal is to publish her self-help and children books to make a difference in the local schools.